Education: - University of Belgrade, Technical Faculty in Bor, section - engineering management;
- LinkGroup, ITAcademy – frontend javascript development

After graduating from university, I went on a one-year training course for Javascript front-end developers. After that, I started learning React JS framework on my own, so I can say that I am a self-taught React JS developer.

So far I have two websites in my portfolio, which I built completely by myself. My wish is to start cooperating with more experienced people, next to whom I will progress, learn, and expand my knowledge.

The job of a React JS developer brings me focus, peace, and I definitely find myself in that job. I suspect that, as time goes on, the enjoyment will be much greater.

Finally, I want to thank you for reading this little motivational letter, and I want to say that I am aware that I still have a lot to learn, I think I have the basis for a modest start and smaller projects.

Strong commitment is there, I continue to work.

Sincerely

Darko Jankovic
